

Internship Opportunity

Restoration Osteopathic Medicine is a small but rapidly growing medical practice in Vancouver Washington. Our environment is incredibly dynamic as we position ourselves to become the largest pain management provider in the area over the next 3 years. While this is likely the worst time in history to operate an independent medical practice, we are flourishing while setting a new standard for quality of care in the pain population. (That's one heck of a claim, but our physicians are literally changing lives every day.)

As an MPH graduate, I struggled to translate my academic preparation into marketable professional skills until I was mentored by the CEO of a major health plan and given the opportunity to work on high level projects. I'm extremely thankful for that mentorship and I would like to give back in the same way. (I also have several projects that I really need some help with.) For the right candidate, this will be a great opportunity to apply your creativity and knowledge base in higher level project work. You'll also develop a thorough understanding of our clinical operations, the dynamics of the current health care market, micro and macro revenue cycles, contract management, strategic planning and the complex landscape of care delivery.
