Please join Jen DeVoe and Sonja Likumahuwa-Ackman as they introduce the newly formed OHSU Center for Primary Care Research and Innovation and their vision for a Learning Health System at OHSU. They will provide a brief overview of the center, its advisory board and activities. They will also describe some of the unique research that’s happening in primary care, and would love to hear from attendees about their research.

The primary care clinical system at OHSU spans Family Medicine, General Internal Medicine, General Pediatrics, and Center for Women’s Health Primary Care, with about 200,000 active patients. Primary care research at OHSU spans many schools and departments, including public health, psychology, dentistry, nutrition, cancer prevention, patient and community engagement.
