

PHOTO CREDIT: JASON LEUNG, UNSPLASH

PHE 410/510 ASIAN AMERICAN HEALTH EQUITY

Asian Americans face tremendous disparities in preventable health conditions yet they are often invisible in health research and policy. As a result, health resources and services are inadequate to meet the needs of this growing and heterogeneous population. In this course, we will examine the historical, social, cultural, and political context that shapes health in Asian American communities in Portland and beyond. We will draw upon both public health and ethnic studies frameworks as lenses for understanding health disparities and community wellness among Asian Americans.

WEDNESDAY
4:00 - 6:30 PM
CRN 44902/44907
3 CREDITS
IN PERSON

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC HEALTH

INSTRUCTOR:
DR. BETTY IZUMI