

PUBLIC HEALTH PRECEPTOR

PURPOSE

This ECHO seeks to develop more confident public health preceptors who are better equipped to support public health students through an applied practice experience resulting in increased opportunities for students to explore a career with underserved populations. We also aim to build leadership skills and increase job satisfaction of preceptors.

Topics will include:

- Internship logistics
- Scoping and managing a project
- Best practices and skills for giving and receiving feedback
- Orienting learners to local and state public health context – including historical context

DETAILS

Audience: Public health professionals interested in becoming preceptors. This is not limited to management, we encourage all staff to attend. Note that this program does not address clinical rotations.

Schedule: 6 sessions. Tuesdays, 9:00 - 10:00 a.m., Pacific time, Sept. 17, Oct. 1, 15 and 29; Nov. 12 and 19.

Register at: www.oregonechonetwork.org/programs

BENEFITS

- Offered at no cost to you or your facility
- The opportunity to present your tough scenarios and receive feedback from a multidisciplinary team of specialists and your peers

“I really appreciated hearing from participants with a wealth of history in preceptorship experiences as well as those of us who are new and not as familiar with available resources.”

— ECHO participant, Winter 2023

REGISTER TODAY

Go to

www.oregonechonetwork.org
to learn more or get signed up

FACULTY TEAM

- Tonya Johnson, MPH, Internship Coordinator, Oregon State University
- Anona Gund, MPH, Transformation Analyst and preceptor, Oregon Health Authority
- Jamie Jones, MPH, Director of Applied Learning, OHSU-PSU School of Public Health
- Marissa Lovell, MPH, Community Health Analyst II, Community Partnerships Program at Lane County Public Health