4286.1 - Learning from our past: Perspectives of former state health officials to build trust in public health and science

Tuesday, October 29, 2024

4:30 PM - 6:00 PM

Program: APHA's Partner Symposiums

Over the last 50 years, state health officials (SHOs) have experienced myriad public health issues from AIDS to Zika – Asbestos to Gen Z mental health. They have addressed public health emergencies, chronic persistent public health issues, and everything in between. What they have learned in the process can help current SHOs and other public health leaders address the public health challenges of today. This session will feature a panel of former SHOs who will share their experiences and what they have learned from those events and offer their perspective on the practice of public health that might be helpful to current workers in the field.

Dismantle, dissolve, deregulate: What Project 2025 could mean for public health

Tuesday, October 29, 2024

6:30 PM - 7:30 PM

Program: APHA Key Sessions

Join us for a town hall to discuss the potential implications of Project 2025 on our goals of achieving health equity, creating a robust public health system and rebuilding trust in our public health institutions. Project 2025 is a proposed policy agenda developed by more than 100 conservative organizations with recommendations for the next presidential administration. While a federal plan, many of the policies and practices proposed in this project are also playing out in multiple states around the country. This town hall will include brief presentations about the elements of Project 2025 and its potential impact at the federal level on agencies, funding, policies, the workforce and the ability to advance health equity, and will explore what we can do together to protect the public's health. Come learn what you can do to help educate and make the case for public health collectively and in your communities
